

K-8 Technology and Design Integrationist

Full-time beginning with the 2016-17 school year

The work of the Technology and Design Integrationist is multi-faceted with lower and middle school foci. These include: reflective planning and integration of technology in classrooms, helping to thoughtfully guide the use of Maker Spaces inside and outside of classroom curriculum, and supporting division-wide initiatives and processes such as class web pages and report card production.

An ideal candidate for our K-8 Technology and Design Integrationist is a passionate educator who is skilled at active listening, a flexible practitioner who is eager to partner with others, and a life-long learner who is committed to helping others learn.

Head-Royce School

Founded in 1887, Head-Royce is an independent, non-denominational, coeducational college-preparatory, K-12 school, which offers a challenging educational program to educate the whole child. The mission of the School is to inspire in our students a life-long love of learning and pursuit of academic excellence, to promote understanding of and respect for the diversity that makes our society strong, and to encourage active and responsible citizenship.

Head-Royce enrolls 875 students and the three separate divisions — Lower, Middle and Upper— provide a dynamic, holistic education to every student. Students enjoy rich cultural experiences, because of both the breadth and diversity of the student population and the numerous opportunities to travel abroad as exchange students and on service missions. There are 155 faculty and staff who are creative, dedicated and leaders in their respective fields. Admission is highly competitive with students coming from a wide range of geographic locales.
