Qualifications and Description:

Providence High School offers a unique Technology Focus Program. This is a four year program for students interested in courses such as game programming, robotics, computer science, and technology integration. The Technology Focus Program does not focus on a single area of technology, but provides a well-rounded overview into the many aspects of technology available to our students. The philosophy of the program is to expose students to many forms of technology, keeping in mind our duty as responsible global citizens.

It is preferred that applicants have teaching experience in this subject area and a Master's Degree, however, expertise in the field of technology is also desired.

Teaching assignment will likely include Exploring Computer Science and Social Media Marketing courses. However, experience with other aspects of technology is preferred. Candidate will serve as an assistant to the Technology Focus Program as well.

The candidate should be a self-starter, very knowledgeable in his/her teaching field, flexible and passionate about education.
